Meeting, Puts Off
Decision On Unity

Special

NEW YORK—The General Jewish Council, which met Sunday to consider three alternative plans for assuming greater responsibility in Jewish defense and relief work, enlargement of the council and other questions, took no action and put off a decision until the next meeting, the date for which was not set, it was learned at the council's office.

No official statement was issued on the closed meeting, which lasted from 11 a. m. to 7:30 p. m., but the fact that no action was taken despite the fact that the session was called for the express purpose of "reaching a decision" on the various plans—as declared in a statement after the September 17 meeting—indicated that major disagreement had arisen among the four national organizations comprising the council.

Not even the enlargement of the council was decided upon, although the September 17 statement had said that "under all the plans the enlargement of the membership of the General Jewish Council is anticipated to permit the inclusion of a great number of representatives than are now a part thereof." The organizations presently represented in the council are the American Jewish Committee, American Jewish Congress, B'nai B'rith and Jewish Labor Committee.

A. Z. A. To Initiate
12 Monday, Oct. 16

Twelve pledges will be initiated into the Indianapolis chapter of A. Z. A. at the next meeting, at 8:30 p. m., Monday, Oct. 16, in Kirshbaum Center, it was announced this week. Leo Klein, lodge master, and Milton Strauss, assistant, will lead the ceremonies. The group has arranged for a ride for 9:30 p. m., Saturday, to start from the home of Stanley Lerman, 1302 E. Ohio St.

Council Snubs American Jewry

DESPITE every possible kindness in reasoning towards the General Jewish Council, despite every possible concession for its ridiculous inactivity, there is no excuse whatever for its continued and repeated snubbing of American Jewry.

By refusing last Sunday to even so much as offer a crumb of information as to its activity or present plans, the Council repeated its dictator-like indifference for those American Jews who in addition to paying their hard-earned money to support the four organizations who compose the Council, rely for their information of what is going on in American Jewry on the Anglo-Jewish press.

This paper was optimistic when it said last week that it took a warring Europe to bring actual unity to the Council. The only unity or consideration the Council will probably ever know will be when in one unified stroke American Jewry will cast aside this ungrateful hybrid, which by usurping the field for unity has stalemated every other attempt in the same direction.

If the Council is meeting with difficulty in one direction, let it say so. If the Council does not want to issue a statement, let it say that conditions warrant no public announcement. But for appreciation's sake, let them not rebuff a Jewish Agency reporter with a shrug of the shoulders, as if to say, "what business is it of yours?"

If the General Jewish Council doesn't or can't, that is unfortunate, but when it won't, then the only unfortunate aspect is the great body of American Jewry who once placed its hope for unity in Kaufmann, et al.

Congress Calls For Unity
Of United States Jewry

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

NEW YORK—Resolutions calling for establishment of a "unified agency" to conduct Jewish defense activities during the war and for extension of "responsibility for the distribution of relief . . . to include representatives of various groups and elements in American Jewry" were adopted unanimously this week by 1,561 delegates from 421 local and national Jewish organizations attending an emergency conference at the Hotel Edison sponsored by the American Jewish Congress.

In order to bring about "the fullest cooperation of the Jewish masses" a committee of twenty-six was appointed to consider the problems "in conference with the Joint Distribution Committee." The resolution stressed that the J. D. C. had done "splendid work" during the past twenty-five years, but that the machinery of relief "must be reorganized and strengthened to meet infinitely larger and greater needs arising out of the war situation."

The resolution calling for "one unified agency" said it was aimed at eliminating "the spirit of competition now existing among agencies engaged in defense of Jewish rights." A question was asked from the floor as to what reference this resolution had to the General Jewish Council, and Louis Lipsky, vice president of the congress, who presided, replied that it "addresses itself to a question now under consideration by the General Jewish Council."

Several of the speeches demanded that Jewish organizations and leaders subordinate themselves to one Jewish agency and that the Jewish masses be given a greater voice in relief activities. Dr. Stephen S. Wise, president of the congress, said: "We would have the American Jewish masses under-

Who's Who In Crypt

Special

NEW YORK—Oglethorpe University's advisory board has selected "Who's Who in American Jewry" for preservation in the Crypt of Civilization to be enshrined in steel and concrete underneath the university buildings in Atlanta and opened six thousand years hence, according to a letter of notification to John Simons, editor-publisher of the Who's Who at 100 Fifth avenue, New York, written by T. K. Peters, director of archives of the university, who is supervising the construction.

Series of Book Reviews
By Dr. Goldblatt Set

Rabbi Maurice Goldblatt will deliver a series of four weekly book reviews before the Indianapolis Hebrew Congregation Sisterhood, beginning at 10:30 a. m., Tuesday, Nov. 7, it was announced this week.

The first book review will be on Dorothy Canfield's "Seasoned Timber." The following week Rabbi Goldblatt will review "Days of Our Years," by Pierre Van Paassen. On Nov. 21, "This Porcelain Clay," by Naomi Jacob, will be reviewed, while a review of "The Driven Leaf" will close the series.

There is no charge for the reviews, and the public is invited, it was said.

Conducted
This Week
By Rabbi
Maurice Parzen

IN ONE of the September issues of The Jewish Post, the editorial writer asserts as follows: "If in the present crisis Jews do not turn to the synagogue for spiritual sustenance, then it can be said with almost complete accuracy that they never will." As I think of that statement—and I think of it quite often—I catch myself involuntarily asking, "turn to what synagogue?" Surely not to the synagogue as it is constituted today.

Painful as it is, the time has come for the handful who are genuinely interested in the synagogue to admit that it no longer generates that spiritual force which in former generations influenced the life of the Jew and made him conscious of his Jewish responsibilities. Can it be said of the modern synagogue that it represents the highest ideals of faith, sincerity, love and unity? Alas not. It's superstructure, with few exceptions, glittering as it may appear to the casual observer, is in reality more social than religious, more material than spiritual.

I review a number of congregational bulletins and their sameness in content is most depressing and appalling. Most of the space is taken up with announcements of entertainments: Dances, luncheons, readings, theatricals, card parties, raffles and congregational dinners. What moral effect can all these functions, when they become the primary activities of the synagogue have upon the genuine religious and spiritual development of the congregation?

I also read the announcements of the lecture series and open forums sponsored by the synagogues as part of their program for adult Jewish education. I read them in the hope of having to rebuke myself for being hasty to judge unkindly. But my hope gradually fades away as I read the names of the lecturers. They are mostly non-Jews speaking on popular topics of the day. Even in the few Jewish names listed in the announcements, one can find little comfort. For in reading their subjects, you realize that not Jewish information is their objective, but entertainment under any price. And all this in the name of adult Jewish education. (Of course, there are the exceptions who do speak on important and vital Jewish subjects.)

What is more, these congregational bulletins force home the conviction that even the services, particularly on Friday night, are attended for entertainment and not for worship and inspiration. How else can one explain their frequent announcements of guest speakers in the pulpit and of special services. Ernest and sincere laymen not infrequently tell me that this is true. Here and there a lonely soul comes to pray, to seek communion with God. Not so, the rest. They come to be amused and entertained. Were that not the case, why, then, the following comments which usually run through the congregation after the services: "I enjoyed the service, did you?" or "I didn't enjoy the speaker at all; I'm surprised you did." Or, "I wasn't thrilled a bit by the services to-night." Then, there is the conclusive proof of the drop in attendance when nothing unusual takes place.

One rabbi confided to me this summer that every time he faces his congregation on Friday night, he can almost hear them saying to him: "Here we are. Let us see what you can do. Now remember, we are doing you a favor by coming. Therefore, you must please us or we will not come again. Moreover, we shall discourage others from coming." That many of the rabbis are experiencing this painful and harrowing feeling, one may say with certainty. Indeed, in the word, "favor," lies the tragedy of it all. Most of the aforementioned activities are undertaken partly as a favor to the rabbis, as an expression of loyalty to him. Let the congregation for some reason or other not like the rabbi and even these activities will be undertaken half-heartedly. How often have I heard it said in many communities, "This congregation would come to life again if only the rabbi would leave."

And the rabbis. Watching helplessly the decay and decadence of the historic synagogue they continue, together with the handful of earnest and sincere laymen, to plead patiently with their hearts' blood for a new birth of faith, for a new evaluation of things, in the hope that ultimately their pleas will be heard. But very often the rabbi remains alone in his struggle for Torah and Israel and it is this aloneness and lonesomeness which is heartbreaking to many a rabbi. Little does the world know how many of them are being forcibly disillusioned, are being broken in spirit and wounded in soul by the materialism and paganism of those to whom they were called to minister.

To conclude: Before the synagogue can sound a call for the return of the wayward it must first take stock of itself and mend its ways. The synagogue members, themselves, must return to God and to the Godly life and thereby set an inspiring example for others to follow. Then and only then, will the call of the synagogue, as the sanctuary of God and the home of the Torah Jew, be heard and prove to be of some effectiveness.

Palestine Jews To Assume Income Tax

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

JERUSALEM—Institution of a graduated income tax on Palestine's 460,000 Jews has been approved at a meeting of the Jewish National Council representatives of local councils. The tax was proclaimed last month by Pinchas Rutenberg, newly elected president of the Jewish National Council. It ranges from 1 per cent on incomes of £10 per month to 20 per cent on more than £100 monthly.

Mr. Rutenberg strongly demanded full support to carry out a wide program of reorganization of the Jewish community to cope with the emergency. "The major present problem," he said, "is liquidation of the shame of 50,000 starving Jews in Palestine." He recommended reorganization of the social structure on a territorial instead of a party basis and demanded that

Historian Says Polish Jews Under Soviet Are Lost to Jewish People

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

RIGA—That section of Polish Jewry which has come under Russian rule must be considered completely lost to the Jewish people, Professor Simon Dubnow, famous historian, declared here in an interview with the J. T. A. It is difficult to forecast what the fate of Polish Jewry will be, he said.

Professor Dubnow charged that world democracy had taken up the fight against National Socialism too late. The fight, he said, should have been begun in 1933. In failing to recognize that the anti-Jewish campaign of the Nazis was the first stage in a drive to annihilate democracy, the democracies made a "grave error." The second stage in the drive, he said, was destruction of the smaller powers. Now, the third stage, the attack on the great powers, has been reached and it will be the task of these powers to restore peace. Jews, Dr. Dubnow declared, must use all their influence to help realization of this task.

Dr. Dubnow stated that Great Britain, France and the United States were the last hope of Jewry. Apart from these, he said, there is the smaller ray—Palestine. After the destruction of Polish Jewry, Dr. Dubnow declared, Palestine Jewry acquired great importance. The historian urged formation of Jewish legions in Palestine and other countries.

Fink Cops Honors At First Session of Bowling League

Dave Fink won first honors at the bowling tournament held by B'nai B'rith last Sunday at the Parkway alleys and was awarded first prize. Fink had the highest score without a handicap and also with a handicap and also had the largest score for one game. Manuel Leve won second honors and Samuel Mantel won third prize.

The scores of members are as follows:

	Three Games	Hdcp.	Total
Sam Kroot . . .	494	99	593
Dave Yaver . .	456	99	555
M. S. Cassen . .	434	156	590

Phi Beta Delta

Special

BLOOMINGTON, Ind.—Phi Beta Delta at Indiana University came to the fore in the realm of extracurricular activities again this week with the announcement of the appointment of Bernard Diamond of Hammond to the position of senior manager of Coach Billy Thom's championship Indiana wrestling squad. This position attained by "Barney" came after service as a sophomore manager, a junior manager last year and consequently a numeral winner, and now this year a senior managership which entitles him to membership in the "I" men's association and presentation of a block "I" sweater.

Last Wednesday evening Alpha Theta social life occupied the limelight once more as more than a hundred Jewish men on the campus were entertained at the traditional Phi Beta Delta smoker for all Jewish men. Entertainment was in charge of the pledge class—class of '43—under the direction of Bobby Ganser of Michigan City.

Also Phi Beta Delta this week awarded the diamond "A," symbolic of pledgeship into Phi Beta Delta, to Milton Fox of Fort Wayne. Milt when in high school was an outstanding man and was president of the chapter of A. Z. A. in Fort Wayne.

Milton Goldberg of Linton was elected president of the pledge class at the first pledge meeting of the year. Al Low of Brookline, Mass., is vice president and Eugene Glick of Indianapolis was elected secretary-treasurer.

Additional men in the chapter active in extracurricular activities include Bernard Kaufman of Whiting, who was named junior manager of the wrestling team. This will entitle Brother Kaufman to a numeral sweater with excellent possibilities of reaching the senior position next year. This also marks the first time in the history of I. U. wrestling that one fraternity has had both the senior and junior managers concurrently.

Elaborate decorations on the chapter house lawn and the traditional open house welcomed back a throng of alumni and friends of Phi Beta Delta for the homecoming week-end celebration last Saturday and Sunday. Alumni from over the state returned once more, renewing old acquaintances and making new ones.

COMPLETED PROGRAM

The program will be a "A Symposium for Better Understanding." Interdenominational speakers are Mrs. Watters, Monsignor M. W. Lyons of the Lady of Lourdes parish; Dr. Frederick Kershner, dean of Butler University, and Rabbi Morris M. Feuerlicht. Mayor Reginald H. Sullivan will extend the "Key to the City." The groups will be welcomed by Louis J. Borinstein, president of the Indianapolis Hebrew Congregation. Rabbi Maurice Goldblatt will give the invocation and Mrs. Markun will preside.

Music during the dinner will be provided by Mrs. S. C. Bodner, violinist; Mrs. Bernard Rosenak harpist; Mrs. Saul Bernat, cello and Mrs. Carolyn Ayres, piano.

Community singing will be led by the Sisterhood Choir, composed of Mrs. Louis Traugott, Mrs. Meyer Efromson, Mrs. Arthur Fairbanks, Mrs. Samuel Hahn, Mrs. H. S. Glickman, Mrs. Sidney Mahalowitz, Mrs. Jane Johnson Burrough, Miss Ruth Medias, and Dorothy Knight Greene, organist.

The Wednesday session will open with a breakfast at the Columbia Club for presidents of affiliated Sisterhoods. The sessions will be held at the temple at Tenth and Delaware streets, starting at 9:45 a. m. Reports of various committees will be given, and the program will be highlighted with a summary of the convention by Rabbi Goldblatt. Luncheon will be served in the vestry.

The local convention committees are as follows. Chairmen of hostesses, Mrs. Samuel Hahn, Mrs. Morris Feuerlicht, Mrs. Arthur Fairbanks, Mrs. Maurice Goldblatt, and Mrs. Isaac Born; general arrangements, Mrs. Harold I. Platt and Mrs. Roy Brown; program, Mrs. David Lurvey; registration, Mrs. Sultan G. Cohen and Mrs. Samuel Komminers; publicity, Mrs. Sydney V. Romer and Mrs. Hahn; music, Mrs. I. E. Solomon; transportation, Mrs. Lawrence Lapinska, and museum, Mrs. Louis Wolf.

Next on the social calendar will be the traditional pledge dance November 4, honoring the 1939-40 pledge group. Zeke Shapiro, one of the chapter pledges, will provide the music with his well-known campus band. Al Kosnoff is social chairman in charge of arrangements for the affair. Also on that week-end will be celebrated the eleventh anniversary of Alpha Theta chapter, founded November 3, 1928.

Other men active in university affairs include Milt Goldberg, who is business manager of the Hillel Banner, official publication of Hillel Foundation; Bernie Diamond, member of Hillel executive council; Bobby Low, a sophomore football manager and member of the flying club; Al Low, a member of the I. U. camera club; Stan Levy, active in the advanced military corps, and several others.

Last week Sid Gerstenhaber lived up to his reputation as a football star which he garnered in the East the past four years. Sid played a leading role as halfback on one of the selected freshman gridiron squads, which played their annual game last week on the eve of homecoming. Sid has an excellent opportunity to see plenty of varsity action as a sophomore next year.

KIRSHBAUM ANNOUNCES PLANS FOR FALL

B'nai B'rith to Meet Monday; Ambitious Member Drive Planned

Full Program Is Outlined As All Departments Open

A full schedule of activities and events to provide a recreational and educational program for every member of the family has been announced by Kirshbaum Community Center for the coming season. Sunday, October 8, has been set for the opening date.

At 10 a. m. Sunday the whistle will blow for the first business men's gymnasium class, which will be followed at 11 a. m. by the regular senior men's classes. Classes for junior boys will be held on Mondays, Wednesdays and Friday at 3:30 p. m., and for intermediate boys at 4:30 p. m. on the same days. Junior girls, 12 years and under, will meet on Tuesdays and Thursdays at 3:30 p. m.; girls 13 to 15 years old will meet at 4:30 p. m.

The evening schedule provides a class on Mondays and Wednesdays at 8 p. m. for men 18 years old and over, and on Tuesdays and Thursdays for girls 16 and over. A special class has been provided for women on Tuesday and Thursday mornings at 10, and for business men on Tuesdays and Thursdays at 6 p. m. In addition to the graded gymnastics provided in these classes, such special activities as volleyball, basketball, badminton, boxing and handball have been planned. A full swimming schedule is also in effect. Norman Weisman is in charge of the athletic program at the Center and Robert Whitney will act as lifeguard and swimming instructor.

New Books in Library

The Kirshbaum Center library will continue to offer an outstanding selection of current fiction and non-fiction, juvenile books, and books of Jewish interest. Many new books have been received in the library during the past week and other additions to the collection are being made regularly.

Ping-pong tournaments for juniors, intermediates and seniors will be planned in the game room this season. Billiard and pool equipment and table games, such as checkers and chess, are also provided. Children will be interested in the new "basketball" game which has been set up in the game room. The game room is open from 3 to 6 p. m. for children, and 7 to 10 p. m. for adults on Mondays through Thursdays; from 3 to 5 p. m. for children on Fridays, and from 2 to 5 p. m. for children and adults on Sunday afternoons.

Dark Room Equipped

The Kirshbaum Center Camera Club will hold its first meeting Tuesday night, October 10. A dark room has been equipped for the convenience of the members of this group and plans are being outlined for the coming year. Mrs. I. G. Kahn is president.

Boy Scout Troop 65, which meets at Kirshbaum Center on Tuesday evenings at 7:30, has already begun its program for the year. Harry Traugott and Charles Feibleman are in charge. The first meeting of Cub Pack 16, of which Rabbi Maurice Goldblatt is the new leader, will be held at 4 p. m. Friday, October 13.

The schedule for classes in puppetry and handicraft for boys and

To Tour State

J. EUGENE FARBER

J. Eugene Farber, president of District Grand Lodge, No. 2, B'nai B'rith, will visit State lodges in the course of the next few weeks. Meetings are being arranged at South Bend, Oct. 25; Terre Haute, Oct. 26; Lafayette, Oct. 27; Muncie, Oct. 29, in the afternoon; Marion, Oct. 29, at night; Indianapolis, Oct. 30, and Ft. Wayne, Oct. 31.

Beginners Class Is To Open Wednesday

Registration of new pupils for the Jewish Educational Association Hebrew Schools is now in progress. The Isaac Marks Branch, which meets at Kirshbaum Center, a new class for beginners will open on Wednesday, October 11. Children 7 years of age and older are eligible for this class. Parents are requested to register their children immediately by calling the Hebrew School office, Lincoln 2765.

Bus transportation to and from school is provided for those living on the north side.

At the Rabbi Neustadt Talmud Torah, 749 Union street, a new class for beginners will open just as soon as there are enough children registered.

Sisterhood Luncheon At Beth El Monday

A program including a book review by Rabbi Charry, chanting of prayers by Cantor Myro Glass and the rendition of yiddish songs by Libby Maurer, accompanied by Esther Cohen, has been arranged for the opening luncheon of the Beth-El Sisterhood at 12:30 p. m. Monday, October 9, in the vestry.

Mrs. Max Selig and Mrs. Sidney Weinstein, chairman, said that reservations may still be made with Mrs. Sam Morgan, Humboldt 2006, or at the temple, Talbot 5196. Mrs. David Sablosky is program chairman.

girls will be announced next week.

A full program of social activities for children and adults is being planned. This complete program of activities and many other events not listed above are offered to Kirshbaum Center members without additional charge. Detailed schedules are available at the Center and those interested are urged to enroll at once in order to enjoy the full season's activities.

Membership Campaign Honoring Saul Munter And Eph Levin Is Set

Many important business matters and discussion of problems in the local community, comprise the program for the meeting of the B'nai B'rith at 8 p. m., Monday, Oct. 9, at Kirshbaum Center. After the business session, a social hour will be held, with cards and refreshments.

A large delegation is planning to attend the Indiana-Kentucky State Association meeting at Ft. Wayne, Sunday, Oct. 8, Jack Kammins announced. Every member of B'nai B'rith is invited, and those members who have not yet signified their intentions to attend are urged to call Mr. Kammins at once.

Plans are being shaped for the huge meeting to be held Wednesday, Oct. 18, when Maurice Bisgyer will be the principal speaker. The membership campaign will be set on its way at this meeting. The class of initiates obtained at this drive will be named in honor of Saul Munter and Eph Levin, past presidents of the lodge. The slogan of this year's campaign will be "The Spirit of '76," or join in the battle for freedom by joining B'nai B'rith.

Max Farb, who is to serve as general of the campaign army, will have under him three majors, Monroe Leiser, Isidore Feibleman and Richard Efrogmson, and under the majors will be captains.

Children's Theater Project Progressing

The only institution in Indianapolis now affiliated with the children's theater movement, the Children's Theater and Radio School, located on the sixth floor of the Insurance building, is taking rapid strides forward under the direction of Miss Emily Mae Johnson.

The new movement has for its purpose the education of the child to the best in children's plays by means of training in expression, by the study of children's plays as examples of good literature, and by actual participation in the production.

A complete working knowledge of play production as well as fundamental training in dramatic expression is acquired by the child. Children do all the acting and are taught to assist in planning and staging the play.

Classes are being offered in play acting, stagecraft, costuming and puppetry and shadow plays. Actual participation in stage and radio is included in the school's curriculum.

All those between the ages of 3 and 16 are eligible to enroll and the tuition for all class instruction is $12 per term of twelve weeks.

Let's Eat Squash—

Post's Menu Expert Says Squash Appears
On Jewish Tables Too Infrequently

THE squash is a vegetable which makes its appearance on Jewish tables much less often than it should. I'd like to say "are a vegetable," because so varied are the forms the squash takes that they seem unrelated. From the pretty little Patty Pans and Acorns to the big Hubbards they offer ever so many possibilities for adding variety to your menu. They even do extra duty as a cocktail or a pie. One seed catalogue even offers a squash which you cook and open to find a mass similar to spaghetti. So let's see what we can do with them.

The simplest way to make summer squash is to boil it. Use only young, firm and tender vegetables. Wash, peel, and cut into small pieces. Cook in boiling water until tender, about 20 minutes. Drain, add a little salt, pepper, and butter, and mash if desired.

Winter squash we bake. Cut into 2 inch squares, remove seeds and strings, put ½ teaspoon butter on each square and bake at 350 F. for 1 hour. Season with salt and pepper and serve in shells. Very simple, but who wants to be simple all the time? Sometimes, when you want to be different, try these.

Summer Squash Cocktail

1 medium-sized squash
½ cup chopped celery
½ cup stuffed olives, sliced
¼ cup oil
¼ cup lemon juice
2 tablespoons chili sauce
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon sugar
¼ teaspoon Worcestershire Sauce, if you like it.

Peel and slice squash and boil just tender. Drain, cut into cubes, and remove seeds. Mix together the other ingredients and add gently. Let stand 1 hour in refrigerator before serving. 6 portions.

Baked Acorn Squash with Apples

Select 3 even-sized squash. Wash, cut in half lengthwise, and remove seeds. Put 1 teaspoon butter, 1 teaspoon brown sugar or honey, and a little salt and pepper in each cavity. Wash, pare, and halve, 3 apples. Put cut side down on top of squash. Sprinkle with a little sugar. Put squash in a heavy skillet, and carefully pour enough water around them to fill the pan ½ inch deep. Cover, and cook over a low flame until the squash and apples are tender, about ½ hour. Sprinkle lightly with more sugar and dot with butter. Place under the broiler a few minutes until lightly browned.

Squash Patties with Green
Pepper Sauce

Mix together 1½ cups chopped roasted peanuts, 2 cups cooked or canned winter squash, 1 teaspoon onion juice, ½ cup bread crumbs, 1 egg yolk, 1 tablespoon milk, 2 tablespoons melted butter, 1½ teaspoons salt, and ¼ teaspoon linas.

pepper. Form into small, round cakes. Dip in an egg white slightly beaten and mixed with ¼ cup water. Dip in fine dry bread crumbs until well coated. Fry in deep hot fat, hot enough to brown a bit of bread in 55 seconds, or 360 F. Drain thoroughly on brown paper and serve as a main dish for lunch or supper with

Green Pepper Sauce

Melt 3 tablespoons butter, add 1 finely chopped green pepper and cook gently for 3 minutes. Add 3 tablespoons flour, ¼ teaspoon salt, and a few grains of pepper. Mix to a smooth paste and cook until the mixture bubbles. Gradually add 1½ cups milk, and cook and stir until smooth and thick.

Gracious, here I am just beginning, and my space is all used up. I haven't had room to tell about squash pie, or stuffed, or candied or fried squash. I'll tell about them a little later, when you've had a chance to try these.

KEMPLER'S:

How many of you mothers find it difficult to entertain your tots, especially when you're trying to do the ironing or finish the washing? It's hard to think of new fairy tales, new games and new tricks to keep them amused and out of mischief, isn't it? Well, KEMPLER'S do have an excellent aid for you in the form of children's phonograph records. Singing games, fairy tales, party songs and Mother Goose rhymes are included in a vast selection of fine records, and they sell for 35 centos, or three for one dollar. KEMPLER'S specialize in these records and they are ideally located on College avenue, right next to Nick Kerz. "It's Kempler's for a better deal." Open each evening from 7 to 9 o'clock.

INDIANA FUR CO.:

I listened to Gilbert Forbes, our local, talented news commentator, over the radio the other night, in a program sponsored by the INDIANA FUR CO. Of course, Gilbert talked about the war in Europe, about the neutrality bill, about the World Series games, and about last Saturday's football upsets; but he left it to the commercial announcer to talk about the INDIANA FUR CO.'s latest and greatest purchase. Heck, Gilbert, that was the news, not the other drivel you blabbed about. Yes, ladies and gentlemen, the INDIANA FUR CO. made a great purchase just a few days ago in St. Louis of Matara Brown, U. S. Government Alaska Seal Skins. They are different and new. Their coppery color and soft loveliness are unimaginably exquisite. Come in, select your style and have a coat made from these gorgeous Matara Seal Skins. Prices start at $295.

RICHARD SCHRIEVER STUDIO:

Fortunate indeed are you women who have at your disposal a reducing club and figure beauty salon so well equipped and with such capable instructors as the RICHARD SCHRIEVER STUDIO. If you've found it difficult to wear the clothes you like and to look sleek and attractive all because some part of your anatomy is bulging where it shouldn't, don't fret and worry any longer. Do something about it. At Richard's, instruction is adapted to each woman's individual needs, her problems analyzed and the best program outlined to give you a lovely figure and good health. The price is surprisingly reasonable, considering the results obtained, ladies, and for $10 you receive the same identical treatment for which movie stars in Hollywood pay staggering sums. The studio is located at 2702 North Pennsylvania near the Marrott Hotel, and the phone is HA. 1143.

TYPL Weiner Roast

Temple Young People's League will give a party and weiner roast at 8:00 p. m. Saturday, October 7, on Fall Creek boulevard. Reservations must be made by 12:00 noon, Saturday, with Betty Sachs, BR. 4274 or Lucille Borinstein, HU. 4521. Tickets are 50c a person, 75c a couple.

Egyptian Room Setting For Masonic Show, Dance

The beautiful Egyptian room of the Murat Temple, the largest ballroom in the state, will form the background for the big twenty-act revue and dance to be given by Monument Lodge Saturday night.

The revue consists entirely of highly talented professional acts. There will be two different shows, one at 9:30 p. m. and the other at 11:30 p. m., each of ten acts. Larry Price and his eleven-piece orchestra will play for the dance.

In the receiving line will be Past Masters Ed Kaeppler, Louis Franklin, Otto Irgang, Dr. Henry I. Berger, Henry Winkler, Ben Domont, Arthur E. Rose, Paul Majors, Dr. Harry A. Jacobs, Abe Blatt, Henry Blatt, Alva Baxter and Samuel J. Mantel.

Eph Levin is chairman of the arrangements committee. Admission is 75 cents per person. The public is invited and all proceeds will go to the Masonic Lodge relief fund.

Two Temple Groups Open Fall Season

SOUTH BEND, Ind.—Two groups in Temple Beth El opened the new season with meetings this week. In the Sisterhood meeting on Monday, Z. Dekelbom spoke during a luncheon program. The Temple Round Table, one of the city's outstanding Jewish organizations, opened its series of autumn and winter sessions Tuesday night with Dr. Isadore Sandock speaking on "Communism—What Does It Mean?" The meeting was held at the home of Sam Hurwich, 1738 North Wilbur street.

Mrs. Shally To Address Junior Council Members

The Junior Council will hold its next meeting at 2:15 p. m., Sunday, Oct. 8, at the Kirshbaum Center. Preceding the program a business meeting will be held, at which Florence Slutsky will preside and Estelle Grossman will give the invocation.

The program includes a talk by Mrs. Shally, who will speak on "Juvenile Delinquency." Hostesses who will welcome the new members are Lillian Camlot, Janet Cooler, Annette Herman, Estelle Grossman, Inda Jane Larmon, Sylvia Maierman, and Evelyn Stein.

Well, the World Series is in full blast, the lid is off and the football season is on, the war is still a battle of leaflets and the social season in good ol' Nap town is in full swingaroo. You'd think I was so crammed full of knowledge that I'd write reams and reams of gobblin' gossip, but here I sit racking my foggy brain with only a faint spark of an occasional dismal thought that might be worth setting on paper.

Saw a mess of people down at I. U. for homecoming last weekend having a grand time watching the Huskies and Hoosiers battle. Irving Smith of South Bend was there as were Sid Weiss, Josh Fineberg, Sol Rothberg of Ft. Wayne, Sidney Schechter, Irving Singer, Abner Schwartz, Dr. and Mrs. Harold Jaffe, Dr. Bernie Hyman, Joe Fogle, Tovie Jacobs, Shirley Barnett and many, many others.

I can't for the life of me figure out what was wrong at one of the houses Sunday. During the short time I was a pledge there several years ago, we were taught to greet visitors to the house with courtesy and show them genuine hospitality, but this was not the case last weekend. Two guests of mine asked me to show them the house. Well, we stood around like a bunch of dummies, were greeted, with a few exceptions by curt "Hi's," and that was that. I made all sorts of excuses later on and tried to pass it off. I've always been proud of the fellows and have endeavored to show them off as fine, hospitable and courteous gentlemen.

We didn't get to go to the Theosot 50 Fall Festival dance last Sunday, but from all reports, it must have been a grand affair. We walked in on the Beth-El meeting for a short time and saw Maurie Epstein, Hap Dorman, Shirley Eindbeinder, Lillian Kay, Lillian Weil, Mr. and Mrs. Glick, Hy Novikoff of New York, brother-in-law of Syd Klain; Mr. and Mrs. Talesnick, Stan Larman, Rose Marie Freiburg, Ethyl Kaplan, Joe Schwartz and Bernice, Mary Jane Falendar, Doris Mann, Phil Hyman and the rest of the gang. Maurie Epstein is to be married next week at Pittsburgh and we wish him all the luck in the world.

During the course of the evening, Ethyl Kaplan sang and in a vote to determine "Who I'd like to be stranded on a desert island with" Bernie Bloom won among the boys and Jane Halpern among the gals. Bernie would probably spend most of his time trying to sell advertising to the monkeys!

It's cause I'm pretty proud and not because I'm given to boasting that I mention the following: My sister, Evalyn, entered Indiana University only three weeks ago as a freshman and has already been selected to play the second lead in the coming University play, "You Can't Take It With You." She will portray the role of Essie, the ballet dancer. Hurrah for our side.

Ta other day, while scampering along Washington street, I spied Betty Edlavitch and her mother, both of Ft. Wayne. They explained that they came to Nap town to do some shopping and it was nice running in to them. Betty is to be married next month as most of you already know.

If you see Josh Fineberg around and ask him what the score of the Indiana-Nebraska football game was, he'll probably say "Indiana licked 'em 7-0." You see, he had to leave a few minutes before the game was over as his girl, Jane Thompson, had to come back home to go to work! In that brief period before the gun fired—well, you know what happened.

Here's a couple of unusual incidents: When Dr. Harold Jaffe was down Bloomington way last weekend, he saw Professor Hale whom he studied under away back in 1915. He walked up to Doctor Hale, was going to introduce himself, but was cut short when the professor said, "Well, hello, Harold Jaffe." That was the first time he saw him in twenty-five years! What a memory! Or could it have been the impression Doc left that lingers on and on and on in the minds of the faculty? Incident number two concerns Hannah Leah Miller. She went up to South Bend to see the Purdue-Notre Dame football game and got sunburned! That's really sumpin'.

Louis Stauber of our fair city, appeared on the Professor Quiz program last Friday night and won fifteen silver dollars, the second prize. A fella's gotta be pretty smart to do that, so we'll give Louis a present too, this week's orchid.

The Red's have invaded New York and rivals are meeting each Saturday on the field of battle, but no one is getting killed and we're all having lots of fun. That's America, let's keep it that way. Bye now.

Students In Foreign Lands Unable To Leave U. S. Shores

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency
WASHINGTON — Secretary of State Cordell Hull has suggested that some four hundred American medical students whose studies in Scottish schools were interrupted by the American government's restrictions on travel abroad be admitted to American universities for the duration of the war.

In a letter to Governor Herbert H. Lehman, who had written the State Department for an explanation of the ban on passports for the students, Secretary Hull expressed the belief that "there is a solution of the matter without jeopardizing the lives of these young men and the possibility of creating a bad international situation."

The four hundred students are among approximately a thousand, a considerable number of them Jewish, who annually go abroad to study medicine in foreign universities, most of them because they were not admitted to American medical schools. This situation was commented on this week by Drew Pearson and Robert S. Allen, authors of a syndicated Washington column, who said the students were obliged to obtain their medical educations abroad because American schools were quietly limiting Jewish students to certain quotas.

Secretary Hull's letter to Governor Lehman follows:

"I have received your letter of September 12 and its enclosures regarding a group of about four hundred students who have been attending medical schools in Scotland and who desire to return to that country for the purpose of continuing their studies.

"As you are doubtless aware, because of the present situation in Europe, regulations have recently been promulgated restricting the granting of passport facilities for Europe to those persons whose travel to that continent is imperative. This policy was adopted because of the danger of travel to and from Europe and the hazards which may be encountered in residing in belligerent countries.

"The department has received many requests that exceptions be made to its policy with respect to persons who have been studying medicine in Europe and who desire to continue their work at educational institutions on that continent. The department has given very careful and sympathetic consideration to this matter but has concluded that the situation is so grave and the hazards involved so great as to render it inadvisable for the students to go abroad at this time. Accordingly, passport facilities for Europe are being denied to medical students as well as to all other students.

"I believe that the situation of this group is so unfortunate that energetic steps should be taken to make arrangements for American universities to open their doors to small groups of them in order that they might continue their studies while the present conflict continues in Europe. I believe that a committee of experienced and interested persons should make every effort to work out with the American Medical Association and the Bureau of Education, and any other similar bodies who could be helpful, a plan whereby these young men may not be denied the comple-

Frankly Speaking

By PAT FRANK
WASHINGTON, D. C.

JUST at this time, there are two sayings that Jews should remember—"by their friends ye shall know them," and "the more they seem different, the more they are the same." I'm talking about that little group of men who have vaulted into the public spotlight via the Jew-baiting route—the little Hitlers who prowl like jackals for the torn flesh that the big, Nazi Hitler has abandoned, or cannot reach.

They may call themselves priests or Congressmen, and they may profess a multitude of lofty aims, from smash Communism to ridding the country of undesirable aliens, but in their hearts they are only Jew-haters, bound together by one aim—to do away with that section of the Bill of Rights that grants Americans freedom and religious liberty.

There are few Jews who see the oceans by polluter printer's ink that flow from the presses of those whose racket is selling hate. But the pamphlets, the magazines, and the dodgers make interesting reading, sometimes.

One of the most virulent of the sheets (but almost unreadable because of the typography) is "America in Danger!" published by Charles B. Hudson, in Omaha. He never lets an issue go by without praise for Coughlin. And he has a good deal of praise, too, for Senator Reynolds, who claims that his new organization, The Vindicators, isn't anti-Semitic.

The Beacon Light, published in Atascadero, California, combines astrology and an anti-tobacco campaign with anti-Semitism in a curious brew for crackpots. Their pet is General Moseley.

Representative Jacob Thorkelson is the particular bright star of William Dudley Pelley, who publishes the Streicher-like Liberation.

Dr. John R. Brinkley, the goat gland specialist, and owner of the 500,000 watt station XERA, which the United States insists broadcasts from Mexico, puts Dr. Gerald B. Winrod, the midwest Jew-hater, on the air, and his speech is published in the Congressional Record at the request of Reynolds.

tion of their careers. I have suggested this to several persons who have taken the matter up with me and have expressed my deep sympathy with any such efforts and the hope that they will be successful. I believe there is a solution of the matter without jeopardizing the lives of these young men and the possibility of creating a bad international situation."

Winrod's "The Defender" praises Reynolds.

Meanwhile the German-American Bund's official mouthpiece, Deutscher Weckruf und Beobachter, goes overboard for Coughlin, and slams a tremendous headline on its front page, "Lindbergh Demands U. S. Keep Out!" Lindbergh, of course, won't appreciate that.

That's just a sample of how the little Hitlers feel about their friends, know them.

NOTES ON A NAZI MEETING

Washington nearly had its first pro-Nazi, anti-Semitic rally the other night, and this, in chronological order, is pretty much how things worked out:

Joseph E. McWilliams, head of the Christian Mobilizers, closely allied to the German-American Bund, marched into the office of Secretary of the Interior Ickes. He had his bodyguard with him. He wanted to have the use of Franklin Park for nightly meetings, ostensibly to protest against lifting the arms embargo.

Ickes, who dislikes Nazis and doesn't hide it, said "Come back tomorrow." They came back the next day, and to their consternation and surprise, Ickes handed them a permit to use the park on three consecutive nights.

The first meeting was scheduled, and when 8 o'clock came, there couldn't have been more than a hundred persons there. Children were roller skating around the sidewalks, and the police were trying to chase them away, so on their ears would not fall what was to come.

In the background stood a couple of F. B. I. men, who are currently interested in McWilliams, and (Continued on Page 8)

BOOK

The Bremen is not in Murmansk, Russia. . . . Neither is it in a British port. . . . It is tied up to a dock in the Harlem River, New York. . . . At least an old mud scow bearing the name of the Nazi liner that has vanished is placidly riding the waves in the heart of New York. . . . Seeing it there, while all the world was wondering what happened to its namesake, gave Arthur Weyne, former roving reporter for the Jewish Day, quite a start.

BOOK

Something of a disappointment, although interesting, is James T. Farrell's little book ever so thinly fictionizing the Coughlin business. . . . Entitled "Tommy Gallagher's Crusade" (Viking Press, $1) the book tells briefly the story of a Coughlinite-tough, a never-do-well who peddles the radio priest's magazine, participates in breaking up red meetings, street assaults on Jews and winds up with a broad yellow streak showing prominently after a taste of an opponent's smashing fist. . . . In the book, Coughlin is Moylan, "Social Justice" becomes "Christian Justice." . . . The tactics of the Coughlinites, their slogans, the picketing of the radio station that barred the priest's Sunday talks, the rallies at which anti-Jewish violence is openly preached—all are pungently related in the brief space of 97 short pages. . . . Moylan, however, remains a very vague picture in the background. . . . We wonder why Farrell didn't undertake to direct his powers of characterization toward him, rather than focusing them upon the callow, futile peddler of his sheet. . . . One of the strong points of the book is the sympathetic portrayal of Tommy's parents and brothers, all of whom are wise to Tommy.

You may be interested to know that in the first six months of 1939, Palestine imported 20,436 kilos of castor oil. . . . Also, 116 camels were imported in the same period, at about $35 a head. And 109 donkeys, at about $40 the head. . . . Julien Duvivier, French film producer who was acclaimed for the insight into Jewish life he showed his picture, "The Golem," has taken New York critics by storm with a new film, which opened at the Filmarte, "The End of a Day." . . . William Guggenheim, the copper man, has turned his hand to song-writing and is doing rather well at it, according to all reports. . . . Sophie Tucker, the red-hot mamma of the foot-lights, revealed recently that she has joined Mrs. Stephen S. Wise in a movement against intolerance. . . . "From now on," she said, "I'm going to use all my spare time to bring a little love into the world." . . . A newspaper headline reads: "4 Sentenced for Picking Pockets in Synagogue on Yom Kippur." . . . Pickpockets who expect to find anything in worshippers' pockets on Yom Kippur ought to have their heads examined. . . . And any Jew whose pocket is successfully picked on that day deserves it. . . . Col. William Hayward, who took a Negro regiment to France during the first World War, is toying with the idea of raising a Jewish legion. . . . This story is making the rounds in Refugee Row. . . . A fish peddler in Danzig toured the streets shouting, "Nice fat herring, 40 pfennig—fat as Goering." . . . Arrested, he was sent to jail for two weeks. . . . Upon his release, he continued to sell his fish, this time, however, shouting, "Nice fat herring, 40 pfennig! Fat as two weeks ago." . . . He sold out in jig time.

Bennie Cohen, Manual Lineman, Wins First Team Berth At Butler; Is Called Fine Player By Coach

By SEYMOUR PINKUS

Tony Hinkle's Butler Bulldogs, Indiana Conference football champs since away back when, are thundering down the glory road to victory with the aid of a package of dynamite, Bennie Cohen.

Only a sophomore, Bennie won starting assignment against Ball three weeks ago and played most the entire game. He saw considerable action last week when the Bulldogs put the bee on Ohio University, and is expected to play vital role in the remaining games of the Blue and White schedule.

He's quite a boy, and a mighty fine football player," his coach, Tony Hinkle, said, "and we know he will be a valuable asset to our team."

A life-long resident of Indianapolis, Bennie learned his football at Manual High School under Harry Painter, where he played regular left guard. A hard worker and good student, too, he is 5 feet, 8 inches tall, weighs 170 pounds and is 20 years old. Bennie is quiet and reserved and well liked on the campus.

There are three other Jewish lads on the Butler squad, all sophs, and all with a chance of making the grade with a little more seasoning. Joe Weinburg of Crown Point, Ind., is 6 feet tall, weight 170 pounds, and is a right half-back. Steve and Irving Hoffman, twins from Chicago, Ill., are both ends. They are 19 years old, and weigh 155 pounds. They got their high school training at Lane Tech, where they were both excellent track men, but played no football.

Style Show Features Junior Council Party At Kirshbaum Oct. 11

An elaborate style show to be presented by the Collegiate Shop has been arranged for the Junior Council membership party at 8 p. m. Wednesday, October 11, at Kirshbaum Center. Clothes will be modeled by Junior Council girls. Due to the generosity of Mr. Shamburg, owner of the Collegiate Shop, smart new fashions for the young miss will be modeled.

At this party Junior Council girls will again have the privilege of seeing Mrs. Louise Richardt of Tournear's Make-up Salon from Block's demonstrate the correct make-up for individual colorings. She has planned to apply make-up to four girls of different types and coloring.

Songs and recitations will be presented by Libby Maurer and Sylvia Madiel. Following the entertainment, refreshments will be served.

The party has been planned by Miss Thelma Leve, chairman, and entertainment has been arranged by Mrs. Seymour Pinkus and Mrs. Roy Leve. The Misses Leona Rabinowitz and Annette Herman have made arrangements for decorations and Sylvia Maierman has charge of refreshments.

Girls participating in the style show include Helen Regan, Edna Klezmer, Goldie Katz, Mrs. S. Pinkus, Mrs. Roy Leve, commentator; Lillian Klezmer, Sally Roth, Shirley Shane, Helen Ann Cohen, Marion Berger, Dorothy Cooper, Mimi Bluestein, Mary Jane Halpern and Lillian Kamlot.

The sole purpose of this get-together is to introduce newcomers to Junior Council and its members. Any girl, 15 or over, is urged to come and enjoy a pleasant evening. Admission is free.

Warsaw Chief Rabbi Believed Executed

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

NEW YORK—Senator Moses Schorr, chief rabbi of Warsaw, was among sixteen Jewish religious leaders arrested and executed by the Nazis, the Jewish Morning Journal reported in a London dispatch quoting Prague sources. Among prominent Jewish leaders killed in the bombing of Polish cities was Senator Jakob Trockenheim, according to the newspaper.

The dispatch said that many Jewish religious leaders, Bundists (members of the Jewish labor party) and laborite Zionists were among those arrested in Lwow by the Red Army of occupation. It also reported the Yiddish poets, Samuel Imber and Ber Horowitz, were shot dead while trying to escape from the Reds to the Hungarian border.

Our Film Folk of HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD — Since it has been the unbreakable policy of Charlie Chaplin never to reissue any of his old prints, we're wondering what will be the outcome of London newspaper requests that he allow his films made in the 1918 era to be shown in England. . . . they particularly want "Shoulder Arms." Chaplin, realizing the tremendous stride motion pictures have made in the last twenty years, would rather not expose his earlier work to the severe comparison of modern films. Only a few old Chaplinesque are ever seen again. . . . and over these he has no owner jurisdiction.

Paul Muni finishes a scene in which he asks rhetorically, "What has civilization learned in 2,000 years?" And from a portable radio set comes a commentator's voice, "Civilization has learned nothing in 2,000 years!" "That's the first trans-Atlantic echo I ever heard," remarked the director.

Groucho planned an extensive vacation—a trip to Europe. . . . war squashed that. Next he considered South America. . . . distance and lack of information kiboshed that. Now he's thinking of a ride to Catalina Island, just off the coast of Los Angeles. But he'll probably settle for a rowboat trip around Westlake Park. Chico, however, did manage to get away to a local spa. On arriving he noticed a little old man staring quizzically. At last the light of recognition came to the man's face. He marched up to the comedian. . . . poked an accusing finger under his nose. . . . declared, "You're one of the Marxes. . . . Don't argue!" . . . and hurried away.

Editor's Chair:

When first I conceived of the idea of a "Rabbi's Corner," I had grave trepidations about its popularity or interest to you readers. In fact, if there was one prominent motive behind the new series of weekly articles, it was to add weight, profundity so to speak, to The Post. I felt, as this publication's critics have not failed to point out, that the paper tended too much to the light side.

What I am trying to say is that the articles to the "Rabbi's Corner" have been astonishingly interesting and delightfully written for popular consumption. What I think is happening is that the rabbis are finding a medium of saying not only to their congregations, but to Indiana Jewry as well, many things that would not be suitable for sermons or speeches.

In fact, I remember once hearing a rabbi at a Friday night service bitterly yattack his congregation for its pitiful attendance a Friday night services. It came to me immediately after I had left the temple, and the same thought came to my companion. "Why lambast those who attended; they certainly were faithful and loyal?"

Through the "Rabbi's Corner" our spiritual leaders are finding it possible to address all Indiana Jewry. I hope that the "Corner" will continue to elicit the same encouraging reaction as in the first few months of its existence.

South Bend Hadassah Hears Mrs. Goodman

SPECIAL SOUTH BEND, Ind.—The South Bend chapter of Hadassah opened its new season Tuesday with an impressive meeting in the Hotel LaSalle. The affair took the form of a tea honoring a large number of new members. Mrs. J. A. Goodman of Indianapolis, member of the national board of Hadassah, was the speaker.

South Bend Host

For the first time in years, an Indiana city will be host to the general committee of District Grand Lodge No. 2 of B'nai B'rith when the committee meets at South Bend on Sunday, October 22. Expected to attend from Indiana are Sam Fleck of Marion and Samuel J. Mantel, first vice president of the district. Rabbi J. Marshall Taxay, Isidore Feibleman and Louis J. Borinstein, who are members of the committee by virtue of their having been president of the district, may attend.

Chance to Redeem Ourselves

WITHOUT tempting fate, or as in this case without pushing England too far, Zionists the world over trying to bring forcefully to the attention of United States Jewry that out of the chaos of the present war has come a blessed opportunity for unrestricted immigration into Palestine. Practically without restriction, all Jews who come to Palestine's door gain admittance, although in every instance the formality of detention and inspection is observed by the British authorities.

Although Zionist leaders understood fully this tacit change in England's administration of the strict immigration laws into the Holy Land, it can be said that these same leaders were taken unaware when England announced this past week, issuance of something near three thousand visas for Palestine entry. This new boon contradicted the Colonial Office's threat that no more new visas would be issued as long as illegal immigration continued in Palestine.

Unrestricted entry is one thing, and indeed the first and most important step, but care and proper accommodation for the immigrants becomes immediately just as essential and urgent. And here is where American Jewry may play its part. Of course, it is a call for funds again, but need it be pointed out that every dollar sent to Palestine has earned a celestial yield in lives and happiness. Must we see again a Pierre van Paassen ten years from now write as he did in his "Days of Our Years" that Louis Marshall, of blessed memory, advised the defunct New York World not to print a series of articles telling of the remarkable progress and future of Palestine's citrus groves, because Paassen's assertion that these groves would soon make Palestine a leading exporter of oranges and grapefruit was not borne out by his (Marshall's) information from private sources.

It should be clear to everyone, especially those bitter and revengeful souls who even today would sabotage the Palestine experiment, that Palestine has turned into the world's (not Jewry's) one beneficent accomplishment in the years since the World War. Chaim Weizmann, leader of the World Zionist Organization, will arrive in the United States shortly. His mission—to enlist additional support from U. S. Jewry. Let him address his appeal to a sympathetic and informed U. S. Jewish public. Let all the factors be understood.

Current Comment

The Jewish Standard, of Jersey City, N. J., Believes It Would Be Dangerous For Jews To Be Articulate On Neutrality Embargo Question.—How should the Jew stand in this embargo embroilment? There is no referendum on the question, hence the right to exercise an untrammelled right to vote in accordance with the dictates of one's reason and conscience doesn't apply. It is merely a question of personal opinion that will not, because of the division of opinion already evident, influence the ultimate determination of Congress. Its mind is already fixed by their personal predilections. Hence it would be a futile yet extremely dangerous act for Jews to be articulate about this question either individually or in some representative capacity. The mobsters of anti-semitism are just laying for some show of Jewish opinion on the subject in order to begin their new line of Jew-baiting strategy. Either way Jewish opinion is expressed it will be seized upon as their concerted influence to drag America into the war. And if war ultimately comes to America, then the cause will be laid at their feet, not while America is at war for the mobster will be silenced, but in the awful aftermath of war the Jew will be blamed as he was by Hitler in Germany. And while it whittles itself down to the crude expression of "Damned if we do" and "Damned if we don't" as it has oftentimes been, still discretion is the better part of valor in this instance and the final judgment of Jews should be to remain utterly inarticulate on this question when they speak as Jews or as Jewish representatives. This should not apply to Jews who speak for non-sectarian Peace leagues or other groups. This is not a counsel of silence to Jews. When their rights as Jews and American citizens are involved, they should never remain inarticulate on any question. It is in this one instance a matter of discretion which sometimes must be invoked in such a heart-breaking fight on the many fronts of anti-semitism.

Ben Mordecai, in The Jewish Advocate, Tells How One Rabbi Was Squelched On New Year Sermon.—Rabbis had a good deal of material for their Rosh Hashonah and Yom Kippur sermons. The war in Europe, the new misfortunes of our people, the ethical and moral lessons of the conflict, all provided good text for pulpit talks. Yet I know of one rabbi who was confronted with unexpected difficulties in presenting his sermons.

He came before his congregation with a zeal and a fervor which had been re-awakened by events across the seas. Feeling that worshippers would be attracted by a lesson suitable for the solemn days, drawn from events of the day, he launched on a sermon with a lofty spiritual message and a noble moral ideal.

War, he declared, was a horrible thing not only for the damage it did to property and the lives it took, but also for the great harm done to human souls. Soldiers in battle are taught to hate. They are consumed by the furious passion of hate, blinded to all human virtues, intent only upon murder and destruction. The civilian populations behind the lines are likewise subject to the same poisons, and learn to foster a deep enmity of the opposing forces. Over a period of time, this hatred poisons the souls of those who hate, consumes the haters, and blots out all love and sympathy and understanding and finer virtues which men of peace have striven on long to inculcate in the human heart.

We Jews, this rabbi declared, were likewise in danger of being overcome by hatred. Hitler's persecution of German Jewry has had the effect of poisoning the minds and hearts of American Jews as well, to the extent that some of them burn with this terrible internal fire of hatred.

It is true that we can't love Hitler—that we can't be indifferent to him, the rabbi said, but we must beware of so giving in to our passions that we poison ourselves with much the same sort of fire which burns in the breast of the basest Nazis. We can be indignant, we can utilize all peaceful means of combatting one who is an enemy of peace and democracy, but let us never sink to such a low level of blind bitterness that we become as bad as the Jew-baiters in spirit.

It was a noble and idealistic message, fully appropriate to the Jewish New Year when men should experience a sense of humility.

Following the services, the rabbi was taken aside by the president of the congregation who, in behalf of several of the members of the board of directors, and their wives, suggested that the topic of war should be avoided during the remainder of the Holy Days. The president told the rabbi that it was his task to preach religion, not to discuss current events, or to tell his congregation not to hate Hitler. Some of the wives thought it was ridiculous, the rabbi was told.

The following day, the rabbi spoke on the significance of the Shofar. He traced its origin in Jewish history, described its significance from the Torah and from the Talmud, expounded versions of the meanings of the various Shofar calls, uttered sentiments about the "ideals of the prophets" and the "eternal life of Judaism" as well as the "preservation of the Jewish soul" and "the Jewish heart," and wound up with a rhetorical burst on Judaism as an uplifting faith to guide and solace Jews in times of need.

Members of the congregation shook his hand warmly. The president beamed; the wives nodded approvingly. The sermon was a grand success, but the rabbi was sick at heart. He knew that he had given his auditors nothing. They approved only of the pretty words, the fine phrases, the show of erudition. The preceding day, when he had attempted to convey a message of value, one which he thought would help them to be better men and women, they had ignored the values. They didn't want ideas; they didn't want to think; they didn't want to hear anything which would disturb their narrowly selfish lives and their narrow channels of thought. The criterion of a good sermon to them was sound, not content. The rabbi knew that religion was not a set of abstract ideals, but ideals translated into action. His congregation preferred their spiritual advice in the abstract. How many more such congregations are there? How many other rabbis have met with the same discouragement. It was a blow to this rabbi because he was young—this was his first pulpit—and he still retained some of his dreams of preaching a living, practical Judaism.

around the fringes were bored reporters and photographers. In the center of the park waited McWilliams' Washington followers—mostly legislative agents (lobbyists to you) for the other friendly anti-Semitic organizations. They waited and waited, and fidgeted, and McWilliams never did show up.

Later, the Interior Department tried to reach him. They found McWilliams had checked out of his hotel immediately after receiving permission to use the park. You see, that wasn't what he really wanted. He wanted to find out whether free speech still was allowed, and he found it was—even for such as he. It must have been a disappointment.
